Miss Maguire's description had been reached her relatives yesterday. None was of a character for them to put much faith in. Were the girl alive it would seem incredible that she should not have been found by some one. There are thick woods on all sides of the camps, however. There is also a marsh. None of these places has been gone over thoroughly yet.

Miss Maguire's family denied positively yesterday that the young woman had any love affair. There had been a report that she had been fond of a young man who was said to be engaged to a girl in one of the nearby camps. The report, the relatives said, was untrue. On account of her extremely pervous condition the family has generally made it a rule not to let her go out alone much.

Charles Maguire, the girl's cousin who took her on the drive, is almost overcome by grief. He is staying at the camp with others of the family. John Maguire, the father, spent all day there and stayed last night at Dover.

TO PUSH CANAL WORK. President Tells Col. Goethals to Go Ahead

and Spend $8,000.000 More. WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.-This statemen was given out to-day at the office of the Isthmian Canal Commission in this city: "The President has approved Col. Goethal's request to continue expenditures in excess of the pro rata monthly allowance for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, on account of present necessities and of unforeseen developments since these estimates were submitted, with the understanding that Congress will be requested to make additional appropriation at the next sessio to cover this deficiency."

Recently Col. Goethals, chairman of the canal commission, submitted to the Secretary of War a report showing that such progress was being made in the canal work that $8,000,000 in addition to the appropriation for the current year could be expended between now and July I next. He explained that this does not mean that the work will cost more than the estimates, but that $8,000,000 more work can be done than was anticipated in the year.

There was some question at first as to whether a deficiency could be incurred. The question was submitted to Mr. Rogers. the attorney for the commission, who decided that the deficiency could be incurred The President has approved his decision and accordingly the work on the Isthmus will not be hampered by a lack of sufficient

Magistrate House, sitting in Essex Marke court, had his patience tried yesterday when several forgery cases came up in which the complainants did not appear settlements had been made out of court. The Magistrate shifted uneasily in his seat when the third or fourth case came up and finally said:

TELEGRAPH SITUATION OF IET. Small Issues a Few Statements and Canard Is Killed.

No attempt was made vesterday by S. J. Small, president of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, to reach the officials of the telegraph companies. The Western Union officials reiterated that they would not see Small or any other labor leader that there can be no arbitration under any circumstances, and that for any influence Small may have on the local situation as far as the company is concerned he might as well have remained in Chicago.

The report was given out at the strike headquarters in the Astor House that the Western Union officials were considering a plan of sending a fake telegram through out the country over the signature of President Small declaring the strike off. Supt. Brooks of the Western Union said the report was too preposterous to waste time

"We realized for a time that this fight was bound to come," added Mr. Brooks, and Mr. Small could have done us no better service than to start the trouble, which will clear the atmosphere so that there will be peace for a number of years. When Small says we broke the agreement, he is saying what is not true. I refer to the agreement made through the letter to United States Labor Commissioner Neill from Col. Clowry. I know it to be a fact that as soon as the letter was received, the terms of which were accepted by the national committee of the union, the committee telegraphed the substance of the letter to Small and Small received it before the ordered the strike in San Francisco.

"The strikers say that we are doing no business. Yet they say that our telegraphers are overworked. How do they reconcile the two statements? We are doing the best we can to keep the new operators from the best we can to keep the new operators from being overworked and are getting out the

Several statements were made during the day by National President Small of the telegraphers. Summed up, they were to the effect that the operators of the Western Union company were so overworked that a number were in danger of a collapse; that there was no chance of arbitration now, but that any plan that was fair would be acceptable when the proper time came; that the companies were bound to lose the fight, and that the strikers were assured of financial aid that would enable them to hold out for six months if necessary

Husband of Mrs. Mary Ann Scannell-Pepper Vanderbilt Admits That Twas the Bishop" Who Wrote "Bright Eyes"

DERBIAT DEFENDTHE "SPIRIT."

A commission in lunacy appointed by Supreme Court Justice Maddox of Brooklyn to inquire into the sanity of Edward Ward Vanderbilt, who married Mrs. Mary Ann Scannell-Pepper, the spiritualist, on June 1 last, began taking testimony yesterday morning in room 23 of the Kings County Court House. Mr. Vanderbilt was on the stand all day.

The inquiry begun yesterday was the outcome of proceedings brought by his daughter Minerva, a young woman of 20, to have him declared incompetent on the ground that he is giving away his propperty to his present wife and is making no provision for his children. Miss Vanderbilt was supported at the hearing yesterday by her father's aged brother and sister. James O. and Miss Florence Vander bilt. Her only sister, Mrs. Florence Del Risko, who is older than herself, was present but appeared to side with her father

Mrs. Pepper-Vanderbilt, whose prese was expected to enliven the proceedings. was not there and it wasn't definitely assured yesterday that she would appea at any stage of the proceedings. Vanderbilt's counsel said she would be on hand if wanted, but the plaintiff's lawyers said they had tried for weeks without success to serve her with a subpoens It was asserted that she is in Europe.

Ex-Judge Abram H. Dailey, Mrs. Pepper Vanderbilt's personal counsel, was on hand to protect her interests, as he explained His presence there led the opposing counse to inquire as to whether she was a party to the proceedings and would be bound by them. Judge Dailey declared that she wasn' bound by the proceedings but was entitled to have her interests protected. Herbert T. Ketcham, the lawyer member of the commission, decided that she wasn't a party to the case. The other members of the commission are Dr. Henry A. Fairbairn and Hubert G. Taylor, a banker.

The case was heard by a Sheriff's jury of sixteen men. The jury was composed twelve when the proceedings started, but after an application to increase the number to sixteen was allowed Deputy Sheriff Menger impressed a number of hallway police who were getting ready to arrest him for bridge jumping and added that he was loungers into service and the taking of evi dence began.

Edward W. Vanderbilt, who is 66 years old but looks right spry for his age, went on the stand late in the forenoon and was still there when adjournment was taken at 3:45 o'clock He was cool throughout the stiff examination by the plaintiff's at torneys, Max L. Arnstein and Charles H. Rosenberg, and answered all questions some very perplexing, without hesitation. Mr. Vanderbilt said in reply to questions

Mr. Vanderbilt said in reply to questions about his wealth that he is the owner of 197 Waverly avenue. Brooklyn, and of several farms on Long Island. Prior to last January he also owned 250 Eightieth street, Brooklyn, worth about $80,000, but transferred that to his wife on June 1, the day he was married. He said that he bought 587 St. Mark's avenue in May and gave it to Mrs. Pepper, to whom he was then engaged, soon afterward as a birthday present. He said his business netted him an annual income of $4,000 and valued his lumber plant at from $5,000 to $6,000. gold watch, a diamond studded Masonic

The witness said that he was married to his first wife, Kezia A. Werman, in 1864, and that they had six children, four of whom are dead, or "on the other side," as Mr. Vanderbilt put it. He worshipped his first wife, he said, and before her death in 1904 they often attended Mrs. Pepper's séances together.

Mr. Vanderbilt said he had made a rather extended study of spiritualism, and while

Then Policeman Brawley came in sight and made for Johnson, whe ran down Lenox avenue. Brawley caught up with Johnson, but the two stumbled over a heap of earth and fell into an excavation for a water main. They fought in the trench, but Johnson managed to wriggle out and ran east. Brawley followed and nabbed his man at a gate to Mount Morris Park. There the two had another tussle, but the cop won out. extended study of spiritualism, and while he had found some things he didn't believe there were other things "of which there is no doubt." He said that when a medium makes tables and chairs move the power comes from "somewhere." He didn't appear to take much stock in that kind of

A question as to what a spirit is, how it communicates through a medium and other questions relating to the way spirits operate brought out the following rees:

"Well, I don't know what it is. It is "Well, I don't know what it isn't matter." "Well, I don't know what it is. It is the 'knower and doer,' and it isn't matter. Your body isn't you. Your body isn't anything. Because your body might be here and your thought off anywhere else, far, far away, maybe. I don't believe in a dual intelligence, and I don't believe in materialization—the transforming of the spirit into matter. I believe in thought transference. That works on the same principle as the wireless telegraph."

Mr. Vanderbilt said he had tried spirit communications through other mediums but without much success, because "I but without much success, because "I was a sort of Jonah, they always told me. Often they wouldn't let me sit in the circle car," Lyons remarked to the conductor.

"I wouldn't care if I broke your damn neck," replied Duffernson.
There was an argument. The plaintiff's counsel spent an hour with various questions about Little Bright Eyes, his spirit guide, but his faith in the little Indian girl was not shaken, and he "There are too many like you," said Magistrate Harris in sentencing Duffernson. "An example is needed to insure a little more respect for the rights of the public and to do away with this business of treating NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 26.-The Atlantic

He was questioned repeatedly as to whether he had made presents of candy and other things to Little Bright Eyes direct and said he had always made such gifts to Mrs. Pepper, although the spirit frequently acknowledged them.

A letter mailed in Germany when Mrs. Pepper was there last summer was then shown to the witness, and when he said the handwriting was that of Mrs. Pepper and had undoubtedly been sent to him the letter was admitted in evidence. This letter was in two sections, the first part supposed to be from his dead wife and letters follow:

One of the many questions asked concerning this letter was whether the check Bright Eyes spoke of receiving was made out to her. Mr. Vanderbilt said that he made out a draft to Mrs. Pepper and always addressed all letters in her name and not Bright Eyes's. The letters "B. In explanation of this letter Mr. Vander-bilt said that Dr. Wyman, a Brooklyn dent-ist and treasurer of Mrs. Pepper's church, had promised to go to the spiritualist camp at Lake Pleasant, but backed out and went to another. He said that Inspiration Hill is a high point on his farm at Centre Moriches, where Mrs. Pepper frequently

One of these pictures, which fell into the hands of Mrs. Pepper when she lived in New England and was later given to Mr. Vanderbilt, is now in the hands of the plaintiff's lawyers and may be introduced in evidence. ATLANTIC RATE WAR ON.

French Line Makes Heavy Cut on Eastbound Passage German Line Out Special Cable Despatches to THE SUN.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 26.-It is authori tatively said here that the Hamburg-American Steamship Company has departed from the Atlantic agreement.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—At the London offices of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company it is said that undoubtedly there were changes to be made in the presen arrangements, which would continue until November. As to the reported departure of the company from the Atlantic agreement the officers would peither confirm nor deny the report.

The French line has entered into the rate cutting war that threatens to send down minimum cabin rates so low that it may be possible to have a continuous ocean voyage for about the same amount that it costs to board at a good hotel in New York. In a circular to its agents the French line

In a circular to its agents the French line thus calls their attention to the rate cutting:

"Notice the rates, the sailing dates and, most important of all, the immense reduction in first class eastbound rates for all future sailings from New York."

The line announces a reduction of $20 in the minimum rate by the its crack ship La Provence, or $75 for the trip to Havre. This is about $15 less than the recently reduced rate of the Cunard Line. By La Savoie and La Lorraine, which rank in speed with the Cunarders Lucania and Campania, the minimum first cabin rate is $70; by La Touraine, which is in the Umbria class, the first class rate to the eastward is $60:

It is said the reason the French line has made its heavy reductions is to counteract the alleged policy of the Cunard Line in selling tickets to Paris at the same rates that they sell tickets to London. The Cunard Line did this to offset the action of the White Star Line in changing its tervival

Cunard Line did this to offset the action of the White Star Line in changing its terminal for the best class of its ships to Cherbourg. It was the only way the Cunard Line could get passengers to the Continent. The impression of agents of all the lines here is that there will be a short and perhaps bitter rate war and that then the financial necessities of the competing lines will cause them to get together and hit upon a compromise by which all may get along. In other words, there will be a "readjustment of rates," as it is put in the vernacular of the steamship men.

ROOSEVELT OR A DARK HORSE Latter From the West, Thinks Judge Buell -Wealth Not Hostile to the Presider

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, Aug. 26.—Judge Charles Holland Duell, who was formerly Associate Justice of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals and who is assistant treasurer o the Republican national committee, has been at Nauheim, where his wife took the cure. He leaves London to-morrow for a two weeks visit to Scotland. He will sail for New York September 14. Speaking to the correspondent of THE SUN to-day Judge Duell said:

Wherever I have gone on the Continen the one topic among Americans has been politics. It has surprised me to find that among the Americans spending their vacations in Europe, composed as they are of the wealthier class, there is so little intense antipathy against President Roose velt. I had expected to discover the mos virulent prejudice existing against the President and his works, but the attitude of Americans toward him is surprisingly moderate. "Many of these who are interested in corporations which have been badly hit by Mr. Roosevelt's policy are naturally averse to the extreme policy which he is pursuing, but they admit that in theory he is right; that the abuses he aims to remedy should be removed, and that it is better the remedies, although drastic. should be applied now rather than later.

"One man who is largely interested in the Interborough Railway Company told me that Mr. Roosevelt's policy has hit his holdings hard, but although he is extreme in his views and methods he is right, and it is better that the overhauling be done now and by a man admittedly honest than at some less advantageous time and by a man of different calibre."

Speaking on the prospective nominee of the Republican party for the Presidency Judge Duell said:

"To my mind it is either Roosevelt or some man from the West who is at present practi cally unmentioned. Roosevelt is the only Eastern man who can possibly be nominate Mind you, I do not say that he will be a candidate, but his entire policy and course are such that they will make it impossible for the party to nominate any other man.

"Roosevelt was undoubtedly sincere i his assertions that he would not be a candidate, but it seems to me as if the next convention, after wasting ballots on favorite sons, will rise and thrust the nomination upon him. It will be impossible for him to refuse. The conservative element, no matter how greatly they oppose him, will be obliged to accept him, as they have no one else equal to contest against him.

"While, possibly, the wealthier element. who have contributed largely in the past to the party funds, may throw the influence of their wealth against Mr. Roosevelt, my opinion is that there will be enough money available for party purposes should Mr.

"To my mind no man would be able to stand a chance against him. He has captured the hearts of the people as no man has since Lincoln, and it is interesting in this connection to state that the President har bors the idea that his course and instincts are similar to those of the great liberator, dent of and for the people."

Special Cable Despatch to TRE SUN.

It now seems that his resignation has been accepted. He will retire to a Francisian monastery, not a Carthusian, as previously announced.

establish an imperial advisory council and also several loca advisory councils in India.

These latter will be partly nominative and partly elective. Two elected members will be chosen from a special Mohammedan electorate of the class paying an income tax, having an income of $330 a year or pay a land revenue above a fixed amount. It will include also all graduates from Indian universities of more than five years standing.

This is the first time that an elective element has been introduced, and the pro-posals are subject to the "essential con-dition" that the British Government be left with undiminished power

SANITATION CENTRALIZED.

Gov. Magoon Issues a Decree to Control the Yellow Fever Situation in Cuba. Special Cable Despatch to THE STN HAVANA, Aug. 26.-Gov. Magoon has signed a decree nationalizing the sanitary service. This very important measure takes the municipal sanitary services out of the hands of the local authorities and places them in the control of the de partment of sanitation in Havana, thus eliminating the chances of inefficiency caused by local conflicts of authority and It has been impossible to obtain efficient service by the municipalities, but under national control conditions will rapidly improve. This is shown by the yellow fever outbreak at Cienfuegos. The health authorities there did not even know that the disease existed. Then came the outbreak. Without any authority of law the national officers took charge and set hundreds of men at work cleaning up the city, which is now in better condition than ever before, but the epidemic got such headway that it cannot be checked within week or two. There were five new cases of the disease in Cienfuegos to-day, making a total of ten. All except one of the victims are Spaniards. The last soldier attacked was discharged from the hospital to-day
